FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Solberg Recognized by Department of State for Emergency Supply of Firefighting Foam

GREEN BAY, WISCONSIN – The Solberg Company, the world’s foremost innovator of firefighting foam concentrates and systems hardware, announced today the company has been recognized by the U.S. Department of State for the company’s assistance in combating the sulphur fires in Mishraq, Iraq. An emergency response request for firefighting foam was answered by Solberg and delivered from both Wisconsin and Norway. A total of 75437 gallons (285560 litres) [1372 drums] of foam was delivered for airlift out of Oslo, Norway, Chicago, IL and McGuire AFB in New Jersey. The order came to Solberg through two channels. In Norway, the request came through the U.S. State Department while in the United States the order was issued through the U.S. Military. Delivery of foam to each of the airlift locations was a critical measure. Foam concentrate had to be delivered in the shortest time possible, orders were received and the product manufactured, packaged and shipped for delivery within 4 to 5 days.

“This effort was truly the result of interagency and international cooperation. The Office of Cooperative Threat Reduction is extremely grateful to all of you that answered phone calls and emails well after midnight, reached out to friends of friends, and worked tirelessly and creatively to quell the blaze,” Phillip Dolliff, director of the Office of Cooperative Threat Reduction in the U.S. Department of State, said in a letter. “We could not have accomplished this task without you, and we deeply appreciate your partnership and support.”
